

THE CAPITOL WHIRL

A Digest of Things Political Occurring At Harrisburg

By International News Service

HARRISBURG, Dec. 24.—The Pennsylvania State Police celebrated the 40th anniversary of its organization December 15. . . . Former Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker approved legislation in May, 1905, authorizing organization of the force. . . . On July 1, 1905, John C. Grome, of Philadelphia, was named the first Superintendent of the State Police. . . . Of the 228 men comprising the four original troops, only Commissioner C. M. Wilhelm remains on active service. Members of the original unit, all of whom rode horses, wore helmets resembling the headgear of London's famous "bobbies."

During the past two score years, only four men have headed the Commonwealth's most renowned law enforcement agency. . . . George F. Lamb, of Harrisburg, was Acting Superintendent in 1919 when Grome served in the armed forces during World War I. . . . Lynn G. Adams, a native of Susquehanna County, Pennsylvania's "hard boiled" cop, was named Superintendent March 1, 1929. . . . Adams served until ousted by ex-Governor Earle in 1937 when the General Assembly changed the name of the organization to the "Pennsylvania Motor Police" and Percy W. Foote was named Commissioner. . . . Foote served for two years. . . . Wilhelm was named Acting Commissioner January 25, 1939, and four months later Adams was reappointed by former Gov. Arthur H. James. . . . Wilhelm was named Commissioner January 20, 1943. . . . In 1943, the force was renamed Pennsylvania State Police. . . . The authorized strength of the force is 1600 men but it currently musters only about 1060.

The State Revenue Department has reported that 21 pedestrians 65 years of age or older were killed in traffic accidents in Pennsylvania. . . . "We must not forget, however, that the youngsters under 15 years of age, too, are heavily involved," the Department said. . . . From January 1 to October 31, a total of 151 youths under 15 years of age were killed in motor vehicle accidents in the Commonwealth, the agency added.

The State Planning Board has emphasized in a weekly report that "Any further wasteful use of soil and mineral resources can only be at our national peril." . . . The Board said the time to guard Pennsylvania's remaining resources had "unmistakably" arrived. . . . "The new world once an untapped reservoir of energy and raw materials, has contributed so much to the development of the mechanical age and the materials of modern warfare that today the world's largest reserves of oil, coal and timber are no longer to be found on American soil," the Board said.

The Department of Forests and Waters has reported that it has received applications for more than 1,000,000 tree seedlings for planting next spring. . . . Secretary James A. Kell said seedlings sell at $2 per thousand while transplants—smaller seedlings which have been transplanted—sell at $5 per thousand. . . . Kell estimated that about 5,000,000 trees will be available for distribution including red pine, white pine, larch, black locust, white spruce, hemlock and black walnut.

CHRISTMAS PRAYER

Tomorrow will be the 169th Christmas since the Declaration of Independence gave birth to the United States.

As a nation we have celebrated many Christmases under more severe material hardships, but perhaps none under an equal emotional strain.

Grievances and anxieties are numerous. They run the range from annoyances about shopping to cynicism about "peace on earth" at a time when world unity is falling apart, when big nations are fighting small nations in half a dozen lands, and when the Russian bear once again is on the move in unfriendly, aggressive fashion.

The Christmas cheer is tainted in many of the very homes which one might think are most to be envied—those where the end of the war has brought back to the family circle men and women absent for months or years in military service.

The anxiety about where jobs are to be found, how to set up housekeeping when houses aren't to be had, and general uneasiness over "what's the world coming to," all form a discordant accompaniment to what we would like to think of as a "Merry" Christmas.

The antidote for much of the grumbling and unrest in the world—and in Bucks county, for that matter—is to remember the deeper significance of the day and of the Teacher whose birth it commemorates.

"CHRISTMAS DRAMA" IS TITLE OF ADDRESS DELIVERED BY CALVARY BAPTIST PASTOR

"The Christmas Drama" was the title of the message delivered by Lehman Strauss, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, at last evening's service. The message in condensed form is herewith presented:

With the approach of the Christmas season, the commercial and industrial world has doubled its efforts to make the most of this "holiday." Attractive "Christmas offers" and "Christmas opportunities" are appearing in bright colors in current magazines. Big business is buying up full page advertising in the newspapers and almost all radio programs are interrupted with nuisance spot announcements of "shop early and save." The commercialization of Christmas is so overdone that the materialistic and monetary advantages have crowded out its real meaning. It is timely, therefore, to turn our thoughts to the real meaning of Christmas.

The Christmas Overture

An overture may be defined as a musical introduction to a drama. That first Christmas day Jesus Christ was born into the world. A new character had appeared on the stage of life that would change the entire course of world events. His coming was the first act of Almighty God in the greatest drama the world has ever seen. A series of actual events possessing Divine dramatic unity and purpose was about to begin.

Like all great dramas, the raising of the curtain was preceded by an overture; not an overture of musical instruments, but of human voices. These are called the First Christmas Songs. They are four in number and were sung by two men and two women. They appear in the Gospel according to Luke, chapters one and two.

The first of these songs was sung by Elizabeth, an elderly mother of Israel. It was occasioned by the visit of Mary the mother of our Lord shortly after Mary had received the promise of a son. Mary had just entered the home of Elizabeth and had greeted her. When Elizabeth heard the salutation of Mary, the babe leaped in her womb; and Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Ghost (Luke 1:41). What could this mean? Simply this, that both Elizabeth and her unborn child were offering homage to the Son of God. Then it was that Elizabeth began to sing: "Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb."

A large tree, with 75 electric lights, shown brightly in one corner, and laurel together with additional lights were strung throughout the room.

James Wherly, a localite, opened the entertainment with a well-conducted Punch and Judy show, which met with the approval of the youngsters. A professional magician and marionette manipulator also entertained.

The arrival of Santa Claus was met by cries of approval from the children assembled, and they confided in him their anticipation of gifts for Christmas. After partaking of ice cream and cakes, gifts of candy, oranges, apples and dollar bills were distributed by Santa, ending an afternoon of fun and suspense appropriate to the joyous season.

The members of Bucks Lodge, No. 1179, L. O. O. Moose, served as hosts to more than 300 girls and boys.

Accordian music was provided by Helen Clott, Silvio Clott and Anthony Juno, and the children sang carols to the accordian accompaniment.

Bitter Fight Shapes Up Over Vetoing of "Recession" Bill

Washington—A bitter fight between President Truman and Congress shaped up today as a result of the Chief Executive's action in vetoing the "recession" bill returning the U. S. Employment Office to state control within 100 days.

Mr. Truman soundly rebuked Congress in announcing he would not sign the bill which also cuts back war appropriations and authorizations fifty-one billion dollars.

Congress tacked the employment provision onto the measure in the hopes that Mr. Truman would sign the bill rather than turn down the war cutbacks.

He instructed the budget director to carry out the war appropriations provisions but said he would pocket veto the measure itself to kill the employment section.

CHRISTMAS LIGHTS BRIGHTEN THE AREA

Municipal Building and Numerous Residences Take On Holiday Appearance

VERY ATTRACTIVE

Christmas decorations are brightening the Bristol area, including Bristol Borough and Bristol Township. Residences having outdoor illuminations in keeping with the holiday season have increased in number during the past few days, and it is believed that the number will be considerably augmented this evening.

Bristol's municipal building is aglow. Ropes of laurel intertwined with lights have been festooned about the entrances and red wreaths with small red candles in them have been placed in every window of the building.

Ropes of laurel and strings of red lights are draped across that portion of the building occupied as fire headquarters while on the Mulberry street side, where the police department is located, green lights are festooned around the entrance. It presents a very attractive appearance.

Some residences having shrubbery on their lawns have made good use of lights in their decorative schemes.

Christmas decorating this year has been resumed and next year it will likely reach the proportions it attained previous to the war.

Returns Being Made From Xmas Seal Sale

"A number of persons who forgot to make Christmas Seal returns at the beginning of the campaign sent in their contributions at the last moment," was the statement made today by Bucks County Tuberculosis and Health Society, Doylestown, Pa.

"We are grateful to them for doing so and hope that others who have not answered the Seal Sale letter sent them in November will take care of the matter this week. This would greatly assist the Society in completing plans for the new year."

A message to the local Society from Colonel Henry W. Shoemaker, State Seal Sale Chairman, highly commends "the widespread participation in the Seal Sale. It shows that the splendid health program of the voluntary tuberculosis organizations is appreciated. The fact that we were able to reach so many groups and to obtain their cooperation is due largely to the unselfish efforts of the volunteers who assisted."

"This cooperation included special programs presented in schools, the gracious receipt of the Christmas Seal wreath by Governor Martin's wife and daughter at Harrisburg, talks given by many persons before clubs and other groups, the churches which joined in the observance of Christmas Seal Sunday, newspapers which helped to publicize the Seal Sale, programs given over radio stations, the Christmas Seal film shown in theatres, display of large posters by outdoor advertising agencies, the cooperation of many stores, business concerns and railroads in displaying Christmas Seal posters, and assistance in other campaign activities by many individuals and groups."

DECLINING AIR POWER

Considering that the Army Air Forces now constitute our first line of defense it seems that there is every reason for the very deep concern which Gen. Carl A.
Spatz has expressed, in an interview, over the present state of American air power.

For various reasons the air arm has suffered more from the speedy demobilization of recent months than any other branch of the service. Because the Air Force got into the fight long before the ground forces in most theatres, an exceptionally high percentage of its personnel was eligible for discharge under the point system when V-J Day came. On top of this the A. A. F. faces a far more difficult replacement problem than the ground forces. It relies, to a much greater extent, on highly trained technicians; its effectiveness depends on the precise coordination of air crew and ground crew teams.

The breaking up of these teams by the discharge of a large proportion of the men who formed them has left the Air Forces ill-equipped to meet any potential threat. New enlistments only partly fill the need. For it will be many months before the recruits will be trained well enough to fit into teams and bring them back to standard operating effectiveness.

Fortunately the possibility is remote that the Air Forces will be called on to defend this country from attack at this time or for several years to come. Even though this is true, however, it seems highly unwise to allow American air power to deteriorate at this point. This is still a world in which influence depends on power and we shall find our influence in world affairs declining if we pull down too rapidly the air strength which we have built.

POSTAL ZONING PERMANENT

Use of zone numbers in addition to addresses on mail matter, having passed the experimental stage, is to be continued permanently, according to the Postoffice Department at Washington. The announcement is of particular interest to communities where many suburban settlements are included in the general coverage of the city postoffice, and when there are similar street names in several communities.

The innovation was started May 1, 1943, to facilitate handling of the mail when many of the regular postal staff had been called away by the war and much of the operation of the service had been assigned to inexperienced men and women. That purpose was served, as many persons using the mails included zone numbers with the addresses on parcels, letters and cards they sent out.

As the newspapers have published the zone lists repeatedly everybody has had an opportunity to obtain one or more of the schedules. It is important that the lists be saved and kept in places about the house where they will be readily available, and that they be used regularly.

A homely simile perhaps will illustrate the point.
People may be divided into two classes—those who think of Christmas as a time to receive gifts, and those who think of it as an occasion to give them.

For two decades or more, most of the stress has been on getting—not on giving. This is as true of nations as it is of people. It is what we meant when we talk of "materialism."

No nation ever found lasting success which dedicated itself to greed rather than service, and no individual ever found happiness in living for himself alone.

Christ defined the purpose of life as being "not to be ministered unto, but to minister."

Those who can find Christmas an occasion to return to such an outlook on life will be blessed beyond measure.

The same thought inspired the Golden Rule, which continues to hold forth a sounder philosophy for the cooperation and organization of men and nations than all the peace treaties and law books ever written.

The current years are a testing of mankind and his institutions. If the roots of our philosophy and faith are deep enough to hold, if we can understand the first principles of community life and abide by truths which are no less true because they are two thousand years old, all will yet be well.

Only a persistence in a "get mine and get it first" attitude towards life can wreck our future.

The doctrines of Christ were given to the earth during a period of materialism as unenlightened and stagnant as was ever known. The world's morale has had its high points and its low at various occasions since then.

But through them all the candle which the Savior lit for mankind—the practical ideals of love and hope and faith—has been the beacon which in the fullness of time rallied mankind again to the principle of universal brotherhood.

It is not a narrow sectarian statement to say that the Christian doctrine has been the guide and the salvation of the world, for Christianity is not so much a religion as a way of life.

Christmas is a day for all, regardless of faith; just as Christ offered himself for the service of all mankind, not merely his own followers.

No one quarrels with Santa Claus; but if he is visioned merely as a giver of gifts, so that all the emphasis is on the question of "what am I going to get," then Christmas is near to losing the real and deep significance it should have—the memory of the life and teachings of the man who came as the Prince of Peace.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Nov. 21, 1889. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

There have been a number of new applications for telephone service in Bristol. When the telephones asked for have been put in there will be 28 subscribers in Bristol.
It is contemplated to improve the service between Bristol and Philadelphia by running wires on a different route so as to get rid of the induction resulting from too close proximity to the telegraph wires, and if a sufficient number of subscribers can be obtained the exchange will be kept open all night and a portion of the time on Sunday.

been appointed by the county commissioners, assessor for the new

The telephone company attempted last week to run their lines along the river front above Franklin street. The property owners objected and several poles that had been planted have been removed.

Edward Thomas has sold his mill property and farm adjoining at Torrendale, to a party from Philadelphia, for $70,000. They intend establishing a leather factory there.
The same party has also purchased the farm of Martha Knight, on the Red Lion road, for $3250 per acre.

Harry Morgan, of Lafayette street, and an employee of the Bristol Rolling Mill, was killed while driving across the railroad at Tacony on last Saturday evening.
There were three others with him, two of whom were also killed, and the third was seriously injured.

Michael Hannagan, special police officer of the Pennsylvania Railroad, arrested 12 tramps at Eddington yesterday, and had them sentenced to the House of Correction for three months.

Tramps infest the neighborhood of the tanks at South Bristol to such an extent that they are becoming a great nuisance.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Co. has bought the two large farms belonging to Dr. Dana and the estate of the late Daniel Lovett, the former for $125, and the latter for $150 per acre. The company is also trying to buy the farm owned by Joseph Brown. These farms are between Morrisville and Penn Valley, and at the junction of the new cutoff road with the main line. It is said the railroad company intends to make extensive sidings for coal and freight trains, build workshops etc. at this point.

The board of directors of the poor met on Tuesday afternoon and followed the recent recommendations of the board of visitors and made a general reduction in the salaries of the officers of the almshouse; also abolishing the office of assistant steward. . . . The present steward was appointed for another year, who will consolidate the hospital and almshouse and by doing so save the county about $2000. The following officers were re-appointed for the ensuing year: Dr. Harvey Kratz, physician; Henry O. Harris, attorney; Lewis Clemens, clerk.

A meeting of council was called for last Monday evening by the burgess, for the purpose of granting the Bristol Light Co. permission to lay a gas main on Market street.
The ordinance which forbids corporations from digging up the streets between the 1st of December and the 1st of March was continued in force, and the permission was not granted.

The work on the passenger tunnel at the railroad station is progressing nicely.

WED 69 YEARS

CARLYLE, Ill.—(INS)—Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Zieren are now enjoying their seventieth year of wedded bliss. Both 89 years old and still in fairly good health, the couple observed their sixty-ninth wedding anniversary recently at the family home in Carlyle. They have five children and thirty-one grandchildren.

YES, IT'S TRUE

VANCOUVER, B. C.—(INS)—A Scottish landlady who recently appeared in the Vancouver rental court had strong religious scruples.
Claiming her tenant was in arrears, she was contesting the suspension of an eviction order. Asked if the tenant had not offered her the rent one Sunday, she replied, "Yes, but of course I could not accept it on the Sabbath."

PIGEON TROUBLE

ERIE, Pa.—(INS)—The "head-per" engaged to rid the Erie court house of the pigeons left it up to the county commissioners how to entice the birds into his traps at night. "Your birds eat in the park and only use the court house caves to roost at night," he said. "How am I going to catch them when they're gone at day and sleep all night?"

Santa Claus?

pleasure at once to the community below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of The Sun:

"Dear Editor:
"I am eight years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says 'If you see it in The Sun it's so.' Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?"

"VIRGINIA O'HANLON,
"115 West Ninety-fifth Street."
Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours, man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not even the strongest man, not even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernatural beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus! Thank God! he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, may, ten times ten thousands years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

TURKEY PIE GOOD WAY TO USE MEAT THAT IS LEFT OVER

By Sara Jane Reish
(Assistant Home Economics Representative)

When the holiday dinner of roast turkey and all the trimmings is over, folks are likely to say "We don't want another 'bite' of turkey or another year." But they find it tastes just as good, if not better, the next day.

The rule for keeping cooked turkey or any kind of cooked meat fresh and sweet is to refrigerate it promptly after the meal. Cooked turkey is likely to spoil if kept at room temperature.

Cover the leftover turkey or wrap to prevent drying out. If all the meat on one side of the turkey is left, it may be stored that way and used for another meal. Or the meat may be removed from the bones and the bones cracked for easy storage. After all the turkey meat has vanished the bones may be used for delicious turkey soup.

Leftover turkey may be served in many ways and one of the best is in sandwiches. Creamed turkey, using leftover gravy, on hot biscuits or waffles is a delicious dish. Cold turkey may be used in salads or it may even be used for turkey pie. Here's a recipe for a pie that's a favorite with many families.

1½ cups chopped cooked turkey 1½ cups diced cooked potatoes ½ cup diced cooked carrots or celery
2 tablespoons finely minced onion 1½ cups medium cream sauce or gravy
Salt and pepper
½ cup grated cheese
Pastry

Combine turkey, potatoes, carrots and onion. Add cream sauce and cheese. Season to taste. Place in a shallow baking dish. Roll out pastry, having it slightly larger than the baking dish. Cover dish with pastry, pressing firmly just below edge of dish. Cut pastry turkeys from scraps of dough, arrange on top pastry. Cut slits in pastry. Bake in moderate hot oven, 400 degrees Fahrenheit, until pastry is brown and filling begins to bubble. Serve hot from baking dish. Makes four to five generous servings.

KNOW YOUR STATE

Publication by the State Planning Board of a program for the conservation of the State's natural resources emphasizes the realization, forced on us by the war, that any further wasteful use of soil and mineral resources can only be at our national peril. Coal, oil, iron, top soil and forests were given us by nature with a prodigal hand. We have spent them all with equal prodigality. The New World, once an untapped reservoir of energy and raw materials, has contributed so much to the development of the mechanical age and the materials of modern warfare that today the world's largest reserves of oil, coal and timber are no longer to be found on American soil.

More than any other 45,000 square miles on the earth's surface, Pennsylvania has contributed to the energies of modern civilization. The time to guard its remaining resources has unmistakably arrived. Europe faced these problems long ago. Its forests and soil had supplied food and timber for thousands of years. In the Nineteenth Century the tremendous growth of its population forced attention on conservation when the United States was merely beginning to explore its seemingly inexhaustible wealth.

In 1873 Robert Louis Stevenson, the author, urged the Royal Society of Scotland to study the influence of forest growth on the flow of streams and on the temperature and moisture content of the air. In that year America needed no such studies. Our forests were prodigious, and Pennsylvania forests were leading the nation in their output of saw timber. Today the American housing and construction program is everywhere handicapped by a shortage of lumber and our eastern cities must be supplied mainly from the far west.

Conservation is being forced on the attention of every thoughtful American. It is a broad field, as the State Planning Board points out in its latest issue of "Pennsylvania Planning." It means saving from waste, not only our hard and soft coal with their precious by-products, and our soil and our forests, but also our cities from decay through noise and traffic jams. It means protecting our residence neighborhoods from unnecessary invasion by business and industry, and our industry and business from unnecessary handicaps caused by the pollution of streams and rivers.

The 1945 Session of the General Assembly under the leadership of Governor Martin passed many im-

Now that the war's over, the average American woman is confronted by her own personal reconversion problem, changing over from the crowded schedule of war-time activities to days suddenly emptied of Red Cross sewing and knitting, hostess duty at service-men's canteens, feverishly-paced drives for salvage and war bonds, the multiple requirements of civilian defense.

If the let-down, restless feeling that insidiously lies in wait for the active woman who all once finds accustomed tasks no longer needed is to be forestalled, To help meet this "reconversion" problem, the Women's International Exposition, which held annual thy womb. And whence is this to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me?" (Luke 1:42 and 43). This was Elizabeth's song of adoration and assurance that the promise of the Son was to be fulfilled.

After Elizabeth had finished her song, then Mary began to sing. The name of her song was the Magnificat, deriving its name from the first line in the Latin form: Magnificat anima mea dominum. The song is composed of four stanzas of four lines each, except the third stanza which has six lines. It is a meditation of personal experience. In the first stanza, (Luke 1:46-48) she honors the Lord for her joy upon her. In humility she rejoices that God has called her to be the virgin mother of His Son. In the second stanza, (verses 49, 50), Mary meditates upon the character of God. His power and holiness. In the third stanza (verses 51-53), Mary sees the Son as He stretches forth His mighty arm in power. It is future. Finally, (verses 54, 55), Mary sees and expresses the faithfulness of God to Abraham and his seed in sending Moses.

The next in order of the Christmas songs is the hymn of Zacharias. It is most wonderful in view of the fact that Zacharias had been being unable to speak for many months. The song begins with verse 68 and concludes with verse 70. It is a hymn of faith, hope and gratitude.

Finally, we have the song of Simeon. The occasion was the presentation of the baby Jesus in the Temple at the age of six weeks. It contains a message of hope and salvation for all the world. Simeon was not singing that all the world would be saved; he was singing of the Saviour's redemption that would be offered to Jew and Gentile alike. There would be those who would reject the Saviour, but not because they had no opportunity to be saved. They would condemn themselves by refusing Him.

So then, these were the first Christmas songs: songs of adoration, faith, salvation and assurance for all who would receive the Son of God as Saviour.

How unlike the modern Christmas songs of this jazz-crazed age! With a turn of the radio dial a syncopated band is heard, each player acting as if he had a bad case of St. Vitus's dance. The dancing neurotics in their homes begin to twitch and twist. Soon they are belted with the jerks and the jitter, and the home is turned into an asylum for head-dizzy and demented maniacs. Certainly these cannot sing the true songs of Christmas, for Christmas hymns spring only from Godly hearts who have faith in Him (Christ) for whom Christmas is named.

The Christmas Offer
The voices of the four sacred singers have ceased. The curtain rises for the first act of the heavenly drama for which the script had been written in eternity past. The scene takes place in a stable where beasts of burden are kept. The shadows of the night have blacked out the identification of three figures in a pile of straw. A woman is resting while a young man kneels by her side. Then is heard the cry of a newborn babe. Mary had brought forth her firstborn son; and he called his name JESUS. (Matthew 1:25). Yes, Jesus (meaning Saviour), for the angel had said: "He shall save His people from their sins." (Matthew 1:21). At last redemption was being offered to the fallen race of Adam.

The Christmas offer was God's love gift to the world. Even His only begotten Son, the Lord Jesus Christ. To whom is He being offered? The Scriptures say: "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." (John 3:16). God's offer of salvation in Christ comes to all who will receive Him, rich and poor, high and low, black and white. The real offer of Christmas cannot be commercialized. Money cannot buy it. It is without money, and without price. Man is redeemed, "not with corruptible things as silver and gold" (1 Peter 1:18), for "the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." (Romans 6:23).

Dear reader, what have you done with the Christmas offer? It is recorded in the Word of God that "He came unto His own, and His own received Him not" (John 1:11). When the offer was first made, it was rejected. The tenderest love ever manifested toward mankind was spurned! The Gift of inestimable value was despised. Even today many persons are rejecting God's Christmas Offer. Multitudes are turning their backs upon the Son of God, and in so doing they are selling their own souls for the tawdry trimmings and the tinsel that a Christmas offers. Indeed Jesus of Nazareth is the forgotten man of Christmas!

But you need not let another

Christmas go by in rejection of God's gift to you. More and more the world is needing the true message of Christmas. It is the message of the Gospel bells ringing with simplicity the message of salvation that "as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name" (John 1:12). Our post-war world is one of sad disappointment and disillusionment. Everyone seems to be material-minded, yet all seems so hopeless. The Christmas Offer promises to meet your every need, for "my God shall supply all your need according to His riches in glory by Christ Jesus" (Philippians 4:19). The Son of God who left His throne in glory to be born into this world as Mary's child, is your Saviour today. Make room in your heart for the Christ of Christmas.

The curtain is about to fall on the last act of this great drama. Soon the Christ of Christmas will return. Then those who have rejected Him will be lost forever. What do you want for Christmas? Does not your heart yearn for the Christ-Child to be born anew within you?

Ah, dearest Jesus, Holy Child! Make Thee a bed, soft, undented, Within my heart; that it may be A quiet chamber kept for Thee.

Morrisville Outscored Their Rivals During the Last
Two Quarters

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Dec. 24.—Failure to keep a half-time lead caused the Bensalem Owls to lose the opening game of the Lower Bucks County League Friday night at the Cornwells floor. Morrisville High was the victor with the final score being 41-27.

At the half-way mark, Jack Hanson and Company had amassed a 22-18 lead but in the last two quarters the Bulldogs scored 23 points while the best the Owls could do was register five.

"Bulldog" Chubb again led the Morrisville boys in scoring with 10 points on four field goals and a pair of fouls. Hanson had 19 of the Owls' points on eight double-doubles and three fouls.

In the first game of the night, the Morrisville Seconds beat the Bensalem Seconds, 20-19. A field goal by Kenny Winger in the last 30 seconds of play gave the Doherty-men the victory.

Webster, who arrived home on Thursday from the Southwest Pacific theatre of operations, has been granted an honorable discharge from the navy, and placed on the inactive duty list. Webster spent the past two years in the Pacific area, he being stationed in the Marshall Islands, then in Hawaii, and more recently Okinawa. COP REBUFFED

KANSAS CITY, (INS)—A police uniform won't get you in everywhere. A Kansas City officer found when he went to a nearby home to call for aid for his stalled power car. Behind a securely chained door, a 14-year-old blonde miss denied entry to use the family telephone, saying: "No. My papa says never to let anyone in to use the telephone when I am alone. Not anyone. Papa says there's a crime wave."

IRONY OF FATE

GREELEY, Colo.—(INS)—Gunner's Mate 3/c Richard Spurrier, 19, of Fort Collins, Colo., served in the Pacific war zone aboard a submarine and was in Tokyo bay when Japan surrendered. He returned home and was drowned in less than three feet of water in a seepage ditch into which he had fallen.

Mixes Baseball With Pins

By International News Service

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 22.—(INS)—Del Webb, new owner of the New York Yankees, came to Pittsburgh recently and mixed baseballs with promotion, sale and manufacture of a new type of clothes pin—made of aluminum and in color.

The pins for milady's wash day originated one night when a bunch of the boys were whooping it up in the parlor of Mrs. W. C. Morris in New York. They were talking about inventions. It was in 1943 and clothes pins were hard to get—in any make.

She suggested they make her a clothes pin.

They tried wire and then turned to aluminum, developed a pin with a lock attachment to hold the clothes on the line and with a little finish will turn them out in blue, gold, red, silver and green.

Webb said he has orders for 210,000 pounds of aluminum and will use a carload a month with an expected annual production of 50 million pins.

YES You Still Have Time!

Although hundreds have already come and gone with their purchases from Diamond Sporting Goods, and although our stocks were near the vanishing point some time ago, you can still stop in and be pleasantly surprised at the number of gifts you will find . . . as a matter of fact, we still have four rooms of games, toys and sporting goods items.

The reason for this is twofold: first, we were able to replenish our stocks; and second, we carry toys the year 'round, so we automatically re-stock as soon as items get low.

So, if you have some last-minute gift-shopping to do, stop in today . . . you'll be sure to find many fine gift items at —
